

UMVIM Book Project

UMVIM, SEJ is excited to announce two new projects in an effort to be more effective stewards of our gifts and talents, as well as sharing the great news of Christ and the work of the UMVIM organization. For these projects, we need your help! We need your photos, stories, and construction plans.

The projects are as follows:

1. UMVIM coffee table type picture book:

Submission of pictures from various church construction and other projects and the teams and the people that they have served. At minimum contributors should provide their names and contact information along with photos and some sort of a release that would allow us to publish any or all of the photos or stories submitted. More lengthily articles would be considered but little or no wording would be required to submit properly identified photos.

2. Mission Church "Cook Book":

A hand book for planning and construction of church buildings in the mission field. The Mission Church Cook Book would be composed of projects/results/ideas for building those projects.

- We ask team leaders and or team members to write short articles about their construction methods and share any drawings, photos etc. that they have.
- This article will detail the plans for the building and construction procedures.
- If contributors have plans or construction drawings but no time to write an article, we would gladly accept them and sort through them for possible inclusion in the "cook book".
- It would also list materials for the site, as well as plans.

Again, at minimum contributors should provide their names and contact information along with photos and a release that would allow us to publish any or all of the photos or stories submitted. More lengthily articles would be considered but little or no wording would be required to submit properly identified photos.
